Muslinwear Buying in January --- Has Become a Habit

AND does one wonder why? Why, it is no wonder at all.

Our grandmothers spun their linens and made them up in the winter months, for the reason they were busy about other things in the summer, when the cotton goods would be worn. There was no time then to make them, so they had to be fore-handed. Then, too, there were the long evenings when they sewed by hand before the machine came.

It is from those days our great manufacturers conceived their idea for making up quantities of muslinwear to be sold during January. Then, too, they keep their operatives busy in the "off" season, which, in a way, accounts for the low prices at which muslinwear is sold in midwinter. This year, because of unusual conditions of trade and the purchase of many thousands of "sample" garments for our January sale, we were able to offer some values most extraordinary.

We welcome the season for lingerie sales and displays, and this one is quite the most attractive we have yet held.

Whitewear, for a time, seemed banished from the realm of fashion, but it has now returned daintier, lovelier, finer and more captivating than ever before its temporary exile.

Back Comes the Petticoat With All Its Fascination

Now that there is a definite waist-line from which to hang the Petticoats, and ankles and knees have no hob-bles, women are very glad to welcome its return; for the Petticoat has always been dear to the feminine heart.

The Petticoat of this season must fit around the hips, though it joyously widens toward the bottom, where a circular flare, flounce or ruffle of lace gives it fullness.

We are showing many most attractive Petticoats inexpensively priced—values quite exceptional, too, at 59c, 79c, $1.19, $1.59, $2.98, $3.98 and $5.00, including both long and short garments-in fact, one of the most interesting features of our January Sale Exhibit of Muslinwear is the quality and charm of our inexpensive gar Second Floor-East
